CO-ED DEBATERS DEFEAT CORNELL

G. W. Girls Win Negative Of Question To Limit Power Of The Supreme Court

AUDIENCE ACT AS JUDGES

Visitors Argue Only To Give Final
Power To People Through Congress

Moving the adoption of the resolution "That Congress Should Have the Power by a Two-thirds Vote to Declare Effective a Federal Statute Which Has Been Pronounced Unconstitutional by a United States Supreme Court," Misses Ruth Hausner and Marjorie McMullen, members of the women's debating team of Cornell University, met and lost to Misses Hester Beall and Phoebe Morrison, of the George Washington University women's team in a debate in Corcoran Hall last Saturday evening.

So ably were the arguments in favor of this resolution presented by the daughters of Cornell that it was cast by a bare majority of the votes by the audience of George Washington students and friends, acting as judges, that the speakers opposed to this resolution took the honors.

Basing their arguments on the modern need for legislative reform the girls from Cornell went into history to trace the development of the judiciary and showed that the power as now exercised by the Supreme Court in declaring a Federal statute in contravention of the Constitution was not in keeping with the modern trend of model government. Such power as our Supreme Court exercises is not so exercised by the courts of other large nations of the present day.

The George Washington girls, too, reviewed our national history and named many constitutional framers who by expression or implication favored such a checking power on the Congress.

Admitting this, the Cornell team contended that while the founders of our Government were men of considerable vision and foresight, they confessed their inability to lay a specific constitutional basis for congressional enactments in years to come, and therefore were careful in preparing

MAKE RAPID PROGRESS PUBLISHING CHERRY TREE

Few Delinquent In Paying For Space
Are Urged By Staff To Get Busy

With all the art work and most of the pictures for the Cherry Tree in the hands of the engraver and the majority of the copy already in the hands of the printer, the Cherry Tree staff may justly feel that excellent progress toward the publication of the annual is being made. Proof is being returned daily from the printer, and the editorial staff is kept busy these days reading and correcting it.

Miss Stroether and the entire art staff deserve a great deal of credit for their excellent work. Perry says that their work will help more than anything else to put the Cherry Tree "across." The "G. W. From Girl," by Donald Kline, has been selected by the board, and it will be reproduced in colors on a full page. It will be one of the attractive features of the book.

There are yet one or two organizations in the school which have not paid for the space they have engaged in the Cherry Tree. This space will be reserved for a short time, but no work will be done on it, because the annual cannot afford to risk the loss.

Members of these organizations should get in touch with Bettelheim, Main 5990, and make definite arrangements with him. Any who have not had their pictures taken should see Bettelheim within the next few days and get a special order on the photographer in order that their picture may be included.

PRESENTS BIBLE TO CHAPEL

John B. Lerner, chairman of the Board of Trustees of George Washington University, has presented to the University a beautiful edition of the Holy Bible, for use in the Chapel. The Bible is of the King James version and has stamped on the cover in gold the words: "George Washington University Chapel."

CHERRY TREE NOTICE

Seniors are requested to fill in as soon as possible a Data Card, giving name, home address, degrees, honors, societies, etc., which information is to be published in the Cherry Tree. Cards may be secured from the Registrar's office of Columbian College. Isabella Brown, who is in charge of the work, as well as Marguerite Daly (Columbian), Stanley Tracey (Law), and G. William Creswell (Medical), will be glad to furnish these cards.

ETA CHI SIGMA HOLDS SECOND ANNUAL BANQUET

President Lewis, Speaking, Predicts
Motor Roller Skates For Traffic Solution

Heading an array of distinguished speakers at the second annual banquet of the Eta Chi Sigma Chemical Fraternity held last Monday, March 2, at the City Club, President William Mather Lewis pointed out that the present trend of rural population to enter urban life to be consumers instead of producers of natural food products would make the study of chemistry of ever-increasing importance to the American people. He emphasized the fact that it will be the chemist who will be called upon to produce food in a concentrated form for the sustenance of our ever-increasing population.

Dr. Lewis predicted that transportation problems will also become of greater importance as population increases, and predicted that motor roller skates will come into common use. His closing remarks were directed toward the conditions at George Washington for the further development of chemistry.

Dean Howard L. Hodgkins spoke upon some phases of organization activities in the University. Dr. H. C. McNeil described portions of the equipment of the new laboratories, emphasizing particularly the effect of such modern installation as the new ventilation and drainage systems upon the embryo chemist. He discussed the new courses given in the department this year and outlined similar courses which are to be included in the future curricula.

Professors Acree and Lepper presented short addresses upon various phases of cooperation between the University and outside agencies, the position of the chemist as a factor in the building up of national industry, his place in the interpretation of economic waste, and other matters of interest were reviewed.

Klare S. Markley and J. F. T. Berliner gave short addresses outlining the purpose and policies of the Eta Chi Sigma. Raymond M. Hann acted as toastmaster. The banquet was well attended by both faculty and students.

PLAYERS GIVE PROGRAM AT REGULAR MEETING

A program of plays, consisting of "The Twelve Pound Look," directed by Marcelline Gray and enacted by Emily Gray, Marcelline Gray, Douglas Hartman and Edward Everett; a monologue by Margaret Maize; a dialogue, "Hanging Out the Clothes," directed by Katherine Lacey and enacted by Elizabeth Wiltbank and Elizabeth Hopkins; and "The Amateurs," directed by Ruth Peters, and including Pearl Wetmore, Edward Moulton, Judson Knappen, Allan Boetcher and Vincent Stubbs in the cast, was given by the G. W. Players last Friday evening at their regular monthly meeting held in Corcoran Hall.

This is the first program of plays to be given by the various student directors, and they should be congratulated on the success of their initial attempt. Miss De Sylvia, the managing director, deserves much credit for the work she has done in planning the program and supervising the direction.

The next meeting of the Players will be held Wednesday, April 1, in Corcoran Hall.

DR. CARROLL, NOTED ARCHEOLOGIST, DIES

Author And Professor For Years
At George Washington An International Figure

STUDIED MUCH ABROAD

Dedicated Greater Part Of His Life
To Archeology And Is Author
Of Many Books

Dr. Alexander Mitchell Carroll, internationally known archeologist and professor of archaeology and the history of art at George Washington for several years, died of heart disease at his home, 2320 Twentieth Street, last Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. Carroll had dedicated the greater part of his life to archeology and was generally known as one of the greatest contributors to that science. It was while he was associated with the School of Classical Studies in Athens, Greece, during the year after he was married, in 1897 and 1898, that he received the inspiration which was to guide his life's work. Thereafter he consecrated himself to making archeology, knowledge of which had formerly been confined to classical scholars, of interest to all people in general.

His return to America was followed by his most productive period as an author and lecturer. In 1899 he became professor of classics at George Washington University, and soon afterward began his work of developing the societies of the Archaeological Institute. The Washington society, of which he was director, has become the largest and most influential of all, conducting excavations and also publishing the magazine Art and Archaeology.

A resident of this city for about 26 years, Dr. Carroll was, besides his connections with the Archaeological Institute, president of the Classical Club and of the Art and Archaeology League.

Last summer he was an official United States delegate to the Congress of Americanists at The Hague, Holland, and in Gotsburg, Sweden, and the French Association for the Advancement of Science at Liege. (Continued on Page 2)

PROMINENT CHEMIST TO ADDRESS SOCIETY

Dr. Norris, President Of American
Chemical Society, To Give Lecture
On Petroleum Uses

Dr. James F. Norris, President of the American Chemical Society, will address the next meeting of the George Washington Chemical Society, Wednesday, March 11, on "Some New Uses of Petroleum." Dr. Norris is a professor of chemistry at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, a member of the National Research Council, and recently elected president of the American Chemical Society, has done extensive work along this line. A national figure in his field, Dr. Norris' broad knowledge will insure an interesting lecture.

Frederick Sillers, Jr., a Junior in the Engineering School, will give a student paper entitled "X-Ray Analysis of Metals and Alloys."

All students are invited to attend this meeting which will be held in the chemistry lecture room, third floor, Corcoran Hall, at 8 o'clock, Wednesday, March 11.

One of the most interesting lectures of the year was given at the last meeting, February 25, by Dr. M. X. Sullivan of the Hygienic Laboratory, U. S. Public Health Service on "The Chemistry of the Human Body." Dr. Sullivan rendered this fascinating subject in a clear and personal way. He also discussed the importance of diet in human life, citing Paavo Nurmi, the phantom runner from Finland, as an example.

ARCHITECT EXHIBIT

An exhibition of the Paris prize drawings for 1923-24 will be held in the Architectural Building, 2101 G Street, from March 11 to 18, inclusive. These drawings include three complete sets of finished drawings and about two hundred sketches showing the progress of the designs from time to time.

FOOTBALL SMOKER

A football smoker will be held next Wednesday evening, March 18, in the University gymnasium at 8.30. The smoker is planned as a get together for all candidates for the 1925 football squad and other students in the University interested in football, and all are cordially welcomed. A short program, including a few short speeches, will be arranged.

PRINCETON TRIO LOSE TO HATCHET DEBATERS

Win Decision In Warm Argument
Over Child Labor Amendment
Question

Outclassing the Princeton team in speaking ability, plan and arguments, the George Washington trio won a 2-1 decision in the debate last Tuesday, March 3.

Trimble, the first speaker for George Washington came back strongly in refutation of the argument of Connor, of Princeton, who held that the proposed Child Labor Amendment was necessary for humanitarian motives. Trimble declared that the proposed amendment since it referred to children up to the age of 18, did not regulate child labor. He further maintained that even if child labor needed regulation by federal action, this was not the necessary legislation, because it was too broad in its scope. He pointed out the result this amendment would have on the state, individual, home and school.

The second Princeton speaker, Richard F. Fater, continued the affirmative argument, by stating that the proposed amendment was necessary for economic motives. In reply to this, Ogg, the second George Washington debater, argued that the Amendment was not necessary. He went on to prove this by giving statistics from the states showing that the number of children whom this legislation could affect would be less than one percent of all in the United States.

Carl Pierson, formerly of George Washington, concluded the arguments for Princeton. He maintained that the amendment was the only good thing under the circumstances, and that since uniform legislation was desirable and necessary, the proposed amendment should be adopted.

R. N. Faulkner exposed the radical nature of this proposed amendment by giving quotations from Bolshevik, Socialist and Communist leaders' speeches. He concluded by saying that the measure was calculated to bring the Communistic state control idea into the United States.

PROF. DOYLE APPOINTED TO NEW EDITORIAL JOB

Prof. Henry Grattan Doyle, of the department of romance languages, has been appointed an associate editor of the Modern Language Journal. Beginning with the opening of the next academic year, he will be assistant managing editor of that publication. He has been since 1918 modern language editor of the Journal of Education and since 1923 an associate editor of Hispania.

Professor Doyle has been asked to collaborate with Prof. J. D. M. Ford, of Harvard, on an edition of the works of Jacinto Benavente, to be published by Charles Scribner's Sons. He has now in preparation an edition of Carlos Arniches for D. C. Heath and Company and is collaborating with Prof. C. K. Jones, of the romance language department, on a Spanish reader, "El Genio Espanol," to be published by the Johnson Publishing Company.

LAW SCHOOL SENATE PLANS ANNUAL DINNER

The Law School Senate, together with the presidents of the different classes, have asked the students of the Law School to ballot "Yes" or "No" on the question of the annual Law School dinner. This dinner has been held thirteen years without a lapse, and it is a sad reflection upon the school that a plebiscite must be held before the authorities are willing to risk it again. If the vote is "Yes" preparations will be made immediately and the dinner will be given in the near future at one of the downtown hotels for the price of $2.50.

Victory, a successful season, old defeats revenged; cheers, hysteria, joy; peace, rest after work well done. These were the results of the overwhelming victory of the Buff and Blue quintet in their court battle with Catholic University, time-honored rivals, in the school gymnasium last Monday night, the final score being 32 to 12.

Greater teams will come, other, greater teams are but memories, but one will have to travel far and wait long to see such a display of teamwork as took place in the closing minutes of this classic battle.

Buff and Blue men were everywhere, the ball could scarcely be followed by the eye, and at frequent intervals it would flash with unerring accuracy through the iron hoop and the cord-meshed netting. The team was invincible, it was "going," it would have been hard for any team to stop.

Cheering throats from the jam of spectators kept the hall in a turmoil throughout the contest, and only exhausted itself after two hours of post-game dancing. Once again G. W. U. had turned the tide on the arch foe, and it was the time for revels.

"Muscles" Sawyer was the hero of the day, his six floor baskets counting heavily in the Maroon and Black downfall. He was followed in his scoring activities by Vernon Brown with four hoopers to his credit. Captain Dowd, playing his usual pivot position, was the key to the team, and played a remarkable defensive game. Herbert "Horse" Zollar and Paul Bowen made up the remainder of the whirlwind team.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR INTERFRATERNITY PROM

Le Paradis Orchestra To Furnish Music For Big Prom At Rauscher's

All plans have been completed for the Interfraternity Prom to be held this year at Rauscher's on Friday evening, March 20, from 10 until 2 o'clock. A contract has been closed with Meyer Davis in which he agrees to furnish the Le Paradis orchestra for the entire dance.

No expense is being spared to make the Interfraternity Prom this year the most elaborate affair ever staged by the Interfraternity Council, as evidenced by the fact that music alone is costing three times as much as on any previous occasion.

Silver novelty favors unlike anything ever given at a prom in Washington have been procured, and in addition to favors attractive programs and dance orders, as well as refreshments, will be provided.

The Prom is open only to fraternity men and their partners. Tickets are now on sale and may be procured from the various fraternity houses or from members of the social committee. The committee in charge consists of Edwin S. Bettelheim, Jr., chairman; George B. Bonebrake, Joseph N. Perry and Jerry T. Smith.

FORMER STUDENT APPOINTED

Thomas C. Havell, a former student of this University, has just received the presidential appointment to the position of Assistant Commissioner of the General Land Office, and has been confirmed by Congress. Mr. Havell studied here in the Corcoran Scientific School in 1899-1900, and in Columbian College in 1902-03.

WASHINGTON, D. C., MARCH 10, 1925

ANOTHER SEASON CLOSED

With a record comparable almost with the record of the football team last year, the basketball team has just closed one of the most successful seasons in the past few years. Of 11 games played by the Buff and Blue team, 6 have been decisive victories while 5 were conceded defeats.

The team this year has played clean, hard and consistent basketball. When they have won they have done so only because they deserved victory; when they have lost it has been fairly and to teams who outclassed them. No excuse or alibi is offered by the team or by their supporters.

Attendance at games this season has been greater than ever before. Enthusiasm has run high, and greater interest in the team and its activities has been shown than ever before by the student body, and the quality of basketball has undergone a corresponding advancement.

The team deserves its due credit for the victories turned in; but to those faithful players who were present at every practice and at every game, ready and willing to give their support and assistance to the team, goes an equal amount of credit.

Jack Daily, who has coached the Buff and Blue men for two seasons, comes in for no small amount of the glory of a victorious season, just as he would receive the greater burden of blame and criticism at the close of an unsuccessful season.

PRaise WHERE IT IS DUE

No one is deserving of greater commendation or appreciation for her efforts in the interest of the University than Mrs. Charles W. Richardson, who with those under her charge made the Colonial Ball, given in the University gymnasium on Washington's Birthday, one of the most successful social events of the year and one of the most beneficial events staged in the interest of the University.

When Mrs. Richardson asked the president for permission to give such a ball, the proceeds to go to the University Hospital, he not only granted such permission but offered the gymnasium for the dance and pledged the assistance of the University as far as possible. Mrs. Richardson and her corps of workers did the rest.

To those who saw the gymnasium transformed to a beautiful colonial lawn, with all traces of a gymnasium removed, realize the work it must have required; to those who were present this was even more evident. The affair was a most colorful one. The French Ambassador and his wife and Secretary Weeks were among the large number of distinguished guests present.

Everybody said the venture would be a failure. But, undaunted, Mrs. Richardson devoted herself to her task. The Architect students of the University were assigned to the decoration of the gym, the president agreeing to finance the cost of the decorations in order to allow that additional money to go to the hospital. But even this was not shirked by the chairman, and after the ball was over she sent to the president's office a check for $470 to cover the cost of decoration—all of which had been raised from outside sources. A profit of nearly $2,000 was reported from the proceeds of the ball, all of which will go to the hospital fund.

But this is not the only way in which the Colonial Ball was a success. It brought to the University distinguished and influential people who gained a lasting impression of the institution and who will help to advertise the work of the institution. This could never have been accomplished if some outside building or ballroom had been used or if the ball itself had not been a marked success in every respect.

Belgium. In 1922 he went as an official delegate of the United States to the Brazil centennial exposition and later was a delegate to the International Congress of Americanists which met in Rio de Janeiro at the same time.

Dr. Carroll founded the Greek-American Club, which has been recently expanded into the Greece-American Society. As a reward for his services to Greece he was decorated during the World War with the Order of the Redeemer.

Dr. Carroll was born at Wake Forest, N. C., June 2, 1870, the son of Rev. John L. and Mrs. Sarah G. Mitchell Carroll. He received his early education at Richmond College and later was graduated from Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, receiving his Ph.D. degree at that institution.

Six Victories and Five Defeats Tell Story of 1925 Court Season

One Victory Over Catholic U. And Another Over Johns Hopkins Outstanding Features Of Season Schedule In Which Bowen And Sawyer Take Scoring Honors

With a grand total of 284 points scored against 282 for their opponents, and with six victories to offset five defeats, the 1925 Buff and Blue basketball team may well consider the season a successful one. Catholic University and Gallaudet, old rivals, were decisively defeated, Johns Hopkins, Blue Ridge College and Roanoke College were conquered in close battles, while Drexel Institute proved easy for the Hatchetmen.

The famous Washington College team was held to a very close score, while the battle dropped to St. Johns was considered somewhat as a robbery. The whirlwind Senators of Davis and Elkins College also won from the Hatchettes, while a battle was dropped to Catholic University early in the season, and another was ceded to Savage Institute in a game played in New York City.

Besides his extensive work in archaeology, Dr. Carroll was the author of numerous books on classical subjects. His chief work as an author was the founding of the Art and Archaeological Magazine, of which he was editor at the time of his death.

Dr. Carroll is survived by his widow, Mrs. Caroline Benedict Carroll; three sons, Mitchell B., Randolph F., and Charles Carroll.

A delightful dance was held at the chapter house of Theta Upsilon Omega fraternity, 1717 S street N. W., last Saturday night. About 40 couples enjoyed the evening as guests of the fraternity, and members of the G. W. U. and Cornell Debating teams were the honor guests. Music was furnished by a four piece orchestra, and dancing continued until midnight.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wooten, with their niece, Miss Sybil Monday, were hosts to members of the local chapter of Pi Beta Phi at the ball of the Louisiana State Society on Thursday evening at the Washington Club.

On Wednesday night, March 4, the Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity celebrated the holiday incident to Inauguration Day with an informal dance at the Chapter House on Connecticut Avenue. Dancing lasted from 10 until 1, resulting in a most enjoyable party.

The Sigma Nu Fraternity entertained at an informal dance at the Chapter House on N Street last Saturday evening. "Happy" Walker's Society Band furnished music for the dance, which was attended by a large crowd.

The Sigma Chi House has been the scene of several social events in the past week, the first being a dance given on Tuesday night by the Wondering Greeks, and the second an informal dance by the active chapter on March 7. Both affairs were greatly enjoyed by the Sig Chi's and their guests.

Dances for Inauguration Week seem to have been the vogue among the fraternities. Among those given was an informal dance by members of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity on March 3. This was not one of the scheduled social events, and although the attendance was smaller than usual, "a good time was had by all."

Phi Sigma Kappa Fraternity also played the host at an informal dance at the Chapter House on Columbia Road, Saturday, March 3, with a large crowd in attendance and plenty of pep.

The local chapter of Phi Mu are celebrating jointly with the Alumnae Chapter their seventy-third anniversary, with a Founder's Day Banquet tonight, March 10, at the White Peacock. Miss Mary Frances Ward is acting as toastmistress, with appropriate responses by members of the active chapter.

PALLAS ATHENE DANCE

The Pallas Athene Society of George Washington University will hold a ball in the Rose Room of The Hotel Washington, Wednesday, March 11, at nine o'clock. Tickets are on sale at $4.00 a couple. Music will be furnished by Irving Boernstein's Orchestra. The Pallas Athene Society was formerly the Writers' and Philosophers' Club.

ALPHA DELTA PI PLEDGES ENTERTAIN ACTIVE CHAPTER

"An Evening of Laughter" was the name of the vaudeville program which the "goats" of the Alpha Delta Pi Sorority gave to the members. The show was held Tuesday evening at the home of Anne Dimon, and was declared by the members to be all that the name implied.

Several dancing skits and a clever play were among the features. In exchange for programs the older girls were forced to give a forfeit, for which they later had to perform in order to get them back. After this exciting game, in which the goat captain was demanded to give the chapter roll, refreshments were served, and dancing followed.

MASONS TO ELECT

The George Washington University Masonic Club will meet in the Gavel Club Rooms, 719 13th Street N. W., Wednesday, March 11, at 8 P. M. to elect officers for the following year. All members are requested to be present.

from a 13 to 10 lead at the end of the half to their 19-point margin of safety. This decisive victory completely erases the 24-20 defeat suffered at the hands of the Brookland team earlier in the season. An interesting comparison can also be made from the fact that the University of Maryland team only conquered Catholic U. 27-17 Tuesday night.

The game started off with a rush for the home team, a free toss by Captain Dowd and a two-pointer by Zollar giving G. W. U. the first lead. Captain Fitzgerald next dropped a long shot through the cords and Garvin evened the count with a toss from the foul line.

Zollar and Brown swept down the floor for a pair of counters, but Keale kept the Brooklanders on deck with a pretty looper that cleared the hoop nicely. Dowd and Sawyer were the next to locate the netting, but Garvin, Fitzgerald and Keale also counted, cutting the Hatchet lead to a single point. A basket by the ever-present Sawyer boosted the Buff and Blue stock as the half ended.

Catholic University wilted under the smarting attack of the Hatchettes as the second period opened. Sawyer and Brown ran wild, the C. U. guards could find no way to stop the onrush, and Coach Daily's team had gathered a 25 to 10 advantage before Garvin finally located the basket for Brookland. Coach Rice, of the visitors, tried vainly to turn the tide of battle by inserting Kenney and McIntyre, speedy forwards, into the lineup, but to no avail. The Buff and Blue tide swept on, 32 being the final goal.

This game concluded the season for the Hatchet basketballmen. They have done more than fairly well, this victory tinting past defeats to make the season successful.

HATCHETTE RIFLEMEN SMOTHER ST. JOHN'S

Take Fourth Straight Victory and Tie With Georgetown for First Honors

Ring up their highest score of the season, and keeping their slate clean, the George Washington University riflemen decisively defeated the St. John's College Sharpshooters, 1925-2000 to 1839-2000, in their telegraphic match last week. This is the fourth straight victory for the Hatchet marksmen, and leaves them tied with the Georgetown University team for top honors.

The Hilltoppers broke the triple tie for leadership by defeating the Blue Jay riflemen of Johns Hopkins, 1911-1835. The Buff and Blue team is shooting the Hopkins Medicos this week.

Lafayette staged a decided comeback by hanging up a score of 1925 to defeat Carnegie Tech, and are tied with the G. W. U. team for the season's highest score.

Lafayette meets Georgetown University this week, and the fight for top honors may be decided. If the Hilltop team wins, however, the final battle will come when the two Washington teams meet.

J. W. Crockett and Hugh Everett, Jr., led the G. W. U. shooters with high scores of 388 out of 400 each. These are the highest individual scores made this season by the Hatchet riflemen.

The standing is as follows:

Team	W	L
George Washington	4	0
Georgetown	4	0
Johns Hopkins	3	1
Pittsburg	2	2
St. Johns	1	3
Gettysburg	1	3
Lafayette	1	3
Cornell	0	4

GIRLS' TENNIS TEAM START CHALLENGE GAMES

Challenge matches are now being played off by the girls' tennis team on the concrete courts at Seventeenth Street, near the Monument. Contestants are listed in the following order, according to their standing: Frances Walker, Cecyle Taylor, Edith Petrie, Elizabeth Chickering, Louise Omwake, Dorothea Bealer, Ivy Wymore, Mary Shoemaker, Alma Adkins, and Mary Didden.

Those listed may challenge the girls rated one or two places above them, and by winning their match replace them in the rating. Any girl desiring to compete, but not yet listed, may challenge the last two in the above list. The outcome of matches should be reported to Frances Walker, captain (phone North 5426), or Ruth Gregory, manager (Cleveland 2999).

THIRD VICTORY ANNEXED BY HATCHET RIFLEMEN

George Washington University riflemen scored another triumph last week in their match with Gettysburg, the third of a series of matches being shot by telegraph. The total scores were: George Washington, 1,902; Gettysburg, 1,851.

The honors of the match go to "Davy" Crockett, veteran member of the United States Olympic rifle team, who made a score of 386 out of a possible 400.

The positions shot were: Prone, sitting, kneeling, and offhand, the five highest scores counting.

The three leading contenders for the intercollegiate championship—George Washington, Georgetown, and Johns Hopkins—remain deadlocked for first place, each having three victories to its credit. Georgetown, however, has assumed the lead in points by hanging up a record score of 1,923 for the season in its match with St. Johns. The third victory for Johns Hopkins was celebrated last week when it defeated Lafayette, 1,851 to 1,749. G. W. gunmen give promise of overtaking Georgetown this week in their match with St. Johns.

The individual scores of the team follow:

J. W. Crockett	386
Frank Parsons	380
Baxter Smith	380
Hugh Everett	378
Thaddeus Riley	378

S. A. E. HOLDS FIRST PLACE IN FRATERNITY LEAGUE

Three Teams Follow In First Week Of Bowling Contests—Sigma Nu Last

Sigma Alpha Epsilon is leading the field in the interfraternity bowling contests now being played with a total of 1,383 piled up at the match last Tuesday at King Pin Alley No. 2, while Merriek, of Sigma Nu, was the highest individual point scorer.

Sigma Chi, bowling last Thursday evening, rolled 1,378, taking second place in the games thus far. Kappa Sigma, with a total score of 1,364 amassed last Tuesday night, stands third on the list, while Sigma Nu brings up the rear with a total of 1,359. Although Sigma Nu has the lowest total, Merriek, a member of the Sigma Nu team, has the highest individual total.

Each fraternity in the league is to bowl three games, the one making the highest total score to be declared winner of the tournament. Most of the fraternities are paired and bowl together, thus getting the benefit of some competition, but the matches are not elimination matches.

The box score for the four fraternities bowling last week follows:

PLAN WEEKLY CONCERTS BY MEN'S GLEE CLUB

A well-balanced program, given last Friday night by the Men's Glee Club at Foundary Methodist Church, including several groups of songs rendered intermittently by the whole club, popular tunes by the G. W. Jazz Orchestra, piano selections by Wilmer Bartholomew, three songs by the double quartet, several funny jingles accompanied on the guitar by Ben Cain, Jr., and humorous negro stories by Professor Moneyway, was well received by a good house.

After the concert an invitation was extended to the men by some young ladies to partake of refreshments, which was promptly accepted by the club.

The next concert of the Men's Club will be given at the Takoma Park Presbyterian Church next Friday, March 13, at 8 p. m. Each week thereafter at least one concert will be given by the club. The entire city will be covered during the course of these concerts.

MEDICAL STUDENTS PLAN FOR MISSIONARY WORK

Movement, Yet Unorganized, Planned To Train Students Of Actual Conditions

Medical students, including several who plan to be medical missionaries, will study the Bible as well as the work of medical men in the various mission fields of the world, if their efforts, already started, meet with a fair degree of success.

Arts and Science students may talk of their chapels as distinct religious efforts, but the Medical school, lacking these, is unique in possessing a type of religious effort which is adapted especially to its course of study. As yet the idea is in a purely embryological state, having been only recently attempted.

Several students of the first and second year classes have formed a nameless society, the object of which is to study the practice of medicine in mission fields. To this end they have adopted as their text Medical Practices in Africa and the East, a book of letters of the men they plan to study. These letters deal with the problems of the medical man in the countries in which they are located.

In all, some ten or fifteen students have joined this movement. It is both informal in character, no definite organization being attempted as yet, and strictly non-denominational. Dr. Maurice E. Miller, formerly a professor of Ophthalmology at Georgetown, has been obtained to address their meetings and talk from the text that has been selected. To these talks has also been added a certain amount of Bible study.

Although a few of these students plan to be medical missionaries, it is emphasized that any medical student may attend. All medical students are accordingly invited to these meetings, which are held every Tuesday at 5 o'clock in Hall 8 of the Medical School.

OPIUM CONFAB DENOUNCED BY COLUMBIA DEBATERS

Next Question For Debate By The Society Is Negro Question

Members of the Columbian Debating Society at the regular Friday evening meeting of the society, March 6, upheld the affirmative of "Resolved: That the Terms of the United States Delegates to the Opium Conference at Geneva Were So Unsound as to Justify Their Rejection by the Other Conferees." J. L. Mendelson, C. Mitchell, and J. Rosenthal constituted the affirmative team, pitting their forensic abilities against those of J. Pitthan, Wroe Alderson, and J. Brommell. The latter took first honors, while C. Mitchell was awarded second. Mendelson's arguments were favorably commented upon by the critic.

At this meeting committees were appointed to make arrangements for future debates. It is planned to have one with the Philippines Society in the near future.

The subject for debate next Friday, while not definitely announced, is expected to deal with the negro question, while the one for the following Friday will probably deal with prohibition enforcement.

All members of the University interested in debating are urged to lend their support to this activity and to attend the meetings held each Friday.

our Constitution and outlined it in such terms as would allow for expansion and growth. It is a model for brevity and generality, they declared, and should not be allowed to become burdensome and long and specific through amendments which are necessary to provide the constitutional basis for needful legislation.

They would not deprive the Supreme Court of any of the powers it now exercises, but would provide for the immediate expression of the people's desires through their representatives by allowing the Congress to enact in legislative form, the will of the people. Such a change as they advocated is not radical nor extravagant, they contended, and is but the natural outgrowth of a desire to promote legislative action in keeping with the spirit of the times instead of lagging behind in modern forms of government. That need for such a reform is apparent, they emphatically stressed.

Declaring that such a change should only be made when there was an undeniable need for it, and that such a need does not exist, the negative team placed the Supreme Court in the keystone position of our system of government; to remove it would result in chaos. Congress has passed, and will continue to enact unjust and prejudicial laws and there is a positive need for a definite restrictive body such as the Supreme Court. To this the affirmative answered that there should be no man or group of men, who, however honest be their opinion, would have the power to defeat the will of the people as expressed by their representatives. By their resolution they merely advocated a reversion of the power already delegated to the Supreme Court from that body to the people through their Congress. In this way, and in no other, would this continue to be a truly democratic representative form of government.

The Cornell girls were met upon their arrival by Professor Hall, who acted as Chairman at the debate. They were entertained at luncheon at the University Club and conducted on a sight-seeing tour of Washington Saturday. Well may George Washington wish for speakers of the oratorical ability of those from Cornell to represent it.

Banta's Gives Out Interesting Facts Concerning Fraternal Organizations Here

G. W. 23RD IN ATTENDANCE

Sororities In Pan Hellenic Congress Have 17,000 Members In 592 Chapters

Interesting information concerning many of the national fraternal organizations having chapters at George Washington University has been published in recent issues of Banta's Greek Exchange, a publication devoted to news of all Greek letter fraternities.

According to information appearing in some of the recent issues of Banta's, Sigma Alpha Epsilon had six men on the last Olympic team in the persons of J. A. Le Coney, a member of the 400-meter relay team; Merwin Graham, hop, step, and jump; Carl Madera, heavyweight boxer; J. Oliver Macdonald, 1,600-meter relay team; Earle Wilson, hop, step, and jump; and Oliver Horn, water polo.

The chapter of Phi Sigma Kappa at Michigan has maintained the highest scholarship average for the past nine years.

Sixty-five percent of the chapters of Phi Chi, medical, are housed in homes of their own this year, a high percentage for a professional fraternity.

The chapter of Alpha Kappa Kappa at the University of Illinois College of Medicine at Chicago is reputed to be the first chapter of any medical fraternity in that city to own its chapter house, with the exception of Phi Delta Epsilon, Jewish. There are 29 chapters of various medical fraternities at the different colleges in Chicago.

Dr. Charles Richardson, of Fayetteville, Ark., Kappa Sigma, and one of the founders of Chi Omega, died on December 22, 1924.

Zeta Tau Alpha at the University of Cincinnati broadcast songs over the radio from WLW. This chapter is also assisting the Episcopal City Mission in their city by sewing for unfortunate girls and also being friendly with them. The Purdue chapter of that fraternity recently assumed the care of a poor child for one year, while the North Carolina chapter is sponsor for a little boy in the mountain district.

Membership in the sororities forming the Panhellenic Congress totals 17,000, divided into 592 chapters, located in 112 colleges.

George Washington University stands twenty-third in the list of American colleges and universities published in the 1924 World Almanac in the order of the number of students attending. The largest in point of number is the University of California, with 15,000, and the smallest in the list of the 50 largest institutions is Duquesne University, with 2,500 students.

CONGRESSMAN SPEAKS BEFORE MENORAHS

Dr. Meyer Jacobstein, U. S. Representative, and one time member of the War Labor Board, addressed the regular bi-monthly lecture meeting of the Menorah Society last Thursday evening. Dr. Jacobstein elaborated on the changes in Congress wrought by time and of the motives of the individual member. He placed emphasis on its democratic nature and on the place of the Hebrew in relation to it.

By unanimous vote Dr. Jacobstein was made an honorary member of the Society.

At the next meeting, to be held on March 19, Dr. Isador Herschfeld, an authority on immigration, will speak on that subject.

URGES CLERICAL TRAINING FOR COLLEGE STUDENTS

President Lewis, In Article Written For Yale News, Sees Need For Secretaries

Appearing in one of the current issues of the Yale News is an article written by President Lewis, of George Washington University, in which he points out the advisability for college men of taking secretarial courses before entering the business world.

"The old custom of the young college graduate beginning at the bottom in an industry or business and working up," writes President Lewis, "is being rapidly superseded by the practice of beginning at the top and working down. This does not refer, as it might appear, to the youth who is possessed of the erroneous idea that, because he has passed through college successfully, he should find immediately a managerial position open to him. It refers to the type of fellow who has had the wisdom and nerve to don overalls and put in honest days of work in various departments of a plant.

"Today the wise youth, seeking an opening, does not have a suit of jumpers under his arm when he approaches father's friend, the president. He has, instead, a notebook, and some stray pencils in his pocket, and a knowledge of stenography in his head. The private secretary, taking dictation from the head of the firm and transcribing his notes, absorbs more information in a day as to the conduct of the enterprise than the man in the yards will learn in two weeks.

"Among the young vice presidents of prominent concerns in Chicago, New York and Washington can be found many who have taken advantage of this method of training. One famous Chicago executive trains most of his aides in this way.

"Before many years the erstwhile lonely subject of stenography will be included in the curriculum of all well-planned departments of commerce and schools of business administration. That statement will evoke harsh criticism from many who are earnestly and wisely driving to keep the line of cleavage between education and training clear. But it will be greeted with enthusiasm by industrial leaders who are finding valuable recruits to the executive staff among college-bred men with secretarial training.

"June will soon be before us; caps and gowns will be laid aside, and the bread line will form. There is time for a course in stenography before this nervous procession gets under way. The advantages of this extra work are evident and should be appealing to the great group looking forward to business and industrial careers."

FORMER STUDENT DIES IN MANILA TROLLEY CRASH

Major John H. Hunter, a former student of George Washington University, and an army authority on explosives, met death under heroic circumstances on February 20, when a runaway trolley car in which he was riding, jumped the track, after crashing down from the peak of Corregidor Island, Manila. Four others were killed and 14 hurt in the accident.

Major Hunter graduated from Eastern High School in 1896, after which he studied chemistry at George Washington University under Dr. Charles E. Munroe. He became interested in explosives while employed in the Naval Ordnance Department at Indian Head, and in later years became an authority on the subject. Since 1902 he had been employed with the Dupont Company, the Bureau of Mines, the Western Cartridge Company, and as superintendent of a smokeless powder plant. At the time of the war he was commissioned a captain in the Ordnance Department, and promoted to major because of his special knowledge and experience.
